

HAVE YOU SEEN MY SISTER.

A HIGHLY POPULAR COMIC SONG.

TUNE.—Bob and John.

Say, my lovely friends, have you any pity,
At your finger ends, then listen to my ditty ;
Our Kate has gone away, last Thursday night we missed her,
Good people do not smile, say, have you seen my sister ?

If you have her seen, I hope you will advise her
To return to me, or I must advertise her ;
Her waist is very thick, her stays give her a twister,
Now tell me b'hoys and g'hals, have you seen my sister ?

She squints with both her eyes, in a manner very shocking,
She's got a mouth for pies, and wears no shoes or stockings,
I'm afraid she has gone off, and some chap did enlist her,
I'm afraid she's gone astray ; say, have you seen my sister ?

She wants her two front teeth, you'd see it when she'd titter,
She's got such little feet, Victoria's shoes won't fit her ;
She wears no cap at all, but a great big muslin whister ;
Now tell me once for all, have you seen my sister ?

Her figure's straight, and tall, her conduct's very proper
She's well provided for she's eighteen pence in copper,
Now if you've her seen, I'm sure you could not have miss'd her.
For she's very much like me—now, have you seen my sister ?

Her mouth is very small, her nose is straight and natty,
I tell you once for all this girl is very pretty.
Now I'll sing you another song, and it shall be a twister,
If you will go with me, and help to find my sister ?
